Meeting Management

Events such as meetings, congresses and symposia are as intricate as a valuable timepiece. They involve many complex interactions, and only when everything meshes together perfectly does a masterpiece come into being. Events must be managed professionally, thoughtfully and with exacting attention to detail.

We operate internationally as a strategic meeting management partner, delivering full service to corporations, national and international associations, governmental and intergovernmental agencies, and other organizations. There are no limitations on venues, delegate numbers or subject matter.

Our client portfolio is as diverse as the areas we work in and as extensive as the services we offer. These include: project planning and management; financial management and accounting; registration services; abstract handling; exhibition management; housing services; social and special events; and on-site management.

Our company's skills, services and solutions span the entire spectrum of conference management, and we successfully steer our clients through every step of the meeting management process.

It takes special skills to organize a great event. Creativity and imagination are essential. So, too, are efficiency and attention to detail.

We work hard to create new concepts, original themes and imaginative solutions. We plan and implement the exceptional – from the broadest concept down to the smallest details.

Our events recreate and convince, they stimulate and arouse curiosity. This is because we understand that live communication, both internal and external, has to be driven by ideas and visions as well as organizational expertise.

Thanks to our wide range of in-house services and our ability to source the best suppliers in the business, we offer cost-effective strategic consulting and expert support. Our services include: venue selection and arrangement, and temporary location construction; design including stage and set, lighting, sound and AV design; creative concept and theme development; comprehensive event management; ancillary services including catering, security, logistics, travel and transportation; graphic design and print production including event programs, brochures, flyers and posters; and web design and hosting.

Like diamonds, great events are forever.

We aim to create incentive solutions that will effectively drive achievement. Our incentive programs are designed to boost sales, improve productivity, enhance performance, promote teamwork, and develop loyalty. The bottom line is always the payback on our clients' investment.

We deliver motivational experiences that make travel as unforgettable as the proverbial "knot in a handkerchief".
